COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

The Savings Bank is having the interior of the Town Office repainted. We hope we can make further improvements this year by having drapes hung and doing some other interior decorating.

We receive many compliments on our facilities for a town office and hope we can maintain the image. The most of the out of town officials who have visited here have remarked as to how fortunate we were to have the space available that we have, especially the vault.

Our usual problems arrived with the snow. We will be receiving calls about our trucks filling in driveways after they are cleared. At the same time we experience a great deal of difficulty by having snow left on the streets and sidewalks by people plowing driveways. This snow is very hard to move after it has been pushed or dumped in a pile. The sidewalks are especially troublesome as we have to use high equipment on them and it cannot move the packed snow.

REGULAR MEETING OF

SAD 44 DIRECTORS HELD
—Annual District Budget Meeting
To be Held Tuesday, Feb. 16

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of S. A. D. 44 was held Monday evening in the library at Telstar Regional High School.

It was indicated in a report of the transportation committee due to conflict in sports schedules additional arrangements have had to be made for bussing. The arrangements will require the use of a contractor's units. Mr. McMullin's, for a minimum of five trips and a possible maximum of 14. Rescheduling will be attempted to minimize the number of additional trips.

Tuesday, Feb. 16, 1971, was selected as the date for the annual District Budget Meeting to be held at Telstar Regional High School.

Robert J. Gerardi, superintendent, reported that the total district enrollment as of Dec. 1 was 1,453. Of this total, 800 were in kindergarten through grade 6; and 653 in grades 7 through 12, including four post graduate students. These compare with Sept. 8 figures of: 818 elementary; 647 secondary, with two post graduates.

A financial report indicated that $117,178.66 remains unexpended, as of Dec. 7, of a gross fiscal 1970 budget of $1,573,075.

Because of negligible student response the board turned down a request to conduct square dance lessons at Telstar Regional High School.

The board concurred with the administration's selection of Richard McCann, chairman of the Social Science department at Telstar, to spend the period of Jan. 11-15, 1971, studying drug abuse with the Boston Vee Squad.

The bid of Maine National Bank to supply temporary operating money for the district in 1971 at an interest rate of 3.75% was accepted by the board. Maine National Bank supplied current year funds in the same category at 6.1%.

A policy regarding eligibility for free and reduced price school lunches granted preliminary approval by the board. The policy is in accord with state and federal guidelines.

A pilot school breakfast program for some of the district's schools was discussed. Decision on this matter was withheld until the Dec. 21 meeting so that the superintendent may determine an approximate number of students interested and/or requiring such a program.

The superintendent was instructed to send a letter of commendation to A. James Fiske of the Telstar Science Department, who was selected as the Maine Teacher of the Year.

In other business the board discussed the Nov. 13 bomb threat at Telstar, the increase in admission charged for basketball games, and the dress code. Mr. Gerardi read the minutes of a Telstar Student Council meeting recommending a modification of the code, and indicated that he would return this in the form of a proposed policy at a subsequent board meeting.

All board members were present with the exception of Mrs. Joan T. Wieser of Bethel.

The next regular meeting of the directors will be held at Telstar Regional High School on Monday evening, Dec. 21, at 7:30.

The monthly meeting of the Historical Society was held Thursday at the Casco Bank meeting room and the speaker, Albert Brown, antique dealer from Rumford, and former Bethel resident, exhibited many of his personal antique treasures, including a collection of rare bells, two most unusual copper lustre mugs, and samples of Sandwich glass. Of interest were two souvenir dishes depicting Bethel mountain views.

Vice-President Edward Quinn presided, and read excerpts from a most interesting newsletter published by the Island Pond, Vermont Historical Society, and led to a discussion of setting up Life Memberships, as well as regular and contributing memberships.

and living perhaps in some of our old homes, would learn much of significance, by attendance. Bethel has a long and fascinating history since the first grantors came to this fertile valley. The first settlers were driven away by Indians, but then came the steady influx of settlers in the late 1700's. Do you know who the first families were or how many of their descendants still reside here, or how they made a living for themselves—who the first postmaster was, the Congressman (and only one from here), the history of Gould Academy?

BOMB THREAT MADE TUESDAY AT RUMFORD PAPER MILL

Startup procedures were set in motion at the Rumford mill of Oxford Paper Co., Tuesday night after the plant had been emptied earlier that morning by a telephoned bomb threat. Police officers and a number of volunteers searched the plant without turning up anything resembling a bomb. Two searches were concentrated in the Steam Plant, and volunteer personnel were able to keep part of that operation running so the mill would not be without heat during the shutdown.

The Pulp Mill was scheduled to start up at 11 p. m. Tuesday and startup of the paper machines and allied equipment was scheduled for 7 a. m. Wednesday.

Some 1,500 employees evacuated the mill Tuesday morning after an early-morning call to Oxford's switch-board warned that there was a bomb in the plant. The caller, described as "sounding like a young man but not a teenager," told the operator, "There will be an end to the world. There is a bomb planted in Oxford Paper." He hung up immediately, but the call was traced to a West Bethel pay phone.

Local and state police officials were notified and union representatives decided to shut down out of concern for the safety of employees. Most employees left the plant immediately as directed, while others remained on a voluntary basis to affect an orderly shutdown. Nearly 200 employees volunteered to stay in the mill until afternoon assisting in the bomb search.

All employees scheduled to work the 3 to 11 p. m. shift were advised not to report for work, and shipments of pulpwood and chips were held off until 7 a. m. Wednesday. Mill officials could not immediately estimate the cost of the shutdown, but they noted that the loss of pay to employees and loss of valuable production time would add up to several thousands of dollars.

False bomb scares can result in a fine and/or a jail sentence. Calling business establishments and schools is considered a misdemeanor and can result in a fine of not more than $500 and/or 11 months in jail. A false bomb threat to government, law and fire agencies is a felony punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 and/or five years in jail.

Letters to the Editor

Dec. 4, 1970

To the Editor:
I wish to publicly thank Julie Dyer, coordinator of the Bethel Area Diabetes Week and all those at the various mills and places of employment for their efforts on behalf of the people of this area. We collected 253 urine samples and found 8 (eight) which reacted to sugar. Of course this does not immediately label these persons diabetic but it does indicate a need for further investigation. All of these persons were so notified. This is a graphic example for the need of constant surveillance for undetected diabetics.

STUDENT COUNCIL NOTES:

STAR GAZING AND HOTDOGS

Strange as it may seem, that just about sums up the night of Dec. 3. On this particular night a group of Physics students with the help of the teachers went out and watched the stars. If one was to name a high light it would be that of looking at Saturn through the school's telescopes.

The group had the use of one of the home ec. rooms and a regular cook out was cooked inside. A few of the students acted as chefs. In all the night proved to be quite fascinating.

As a group of students went out armed with flashlights and binoculars to better see the stars with others were busy eating. The group picked a good night on which to do this. The stars were fantastic and every once in a while one could see shooting stars, one of which was just a great sight to see. The rings of Saturn were visible with the aid of the telescopes.

The students really enjoyed the whole thing, hot dogs and all. It is hoped that this will take place again later in the year, which should also be quite exciting. Star gazing is a lot of fun and is very interesting. The students who were there would agree that astronomy isn't so bad after all.

WOODSTOCK ELEMENTARY

When Language Arts teachers at Woodstock Elementary School objected to the lack of capital letters on the lobby bulletin board announcing Children's Book Week, a contest was on. Which of the students in the Intermediate Grades would be the first to discover this practice which doesn't match their textbook advice on capitalization?

Deborah Howard, Grade 4, was the observant girl who reported the situation to her teacher, Mrs. Mary Billings. When Deborah was ready to replace the "important" words of the name of a special event" with letters more in keeping with her lessons, she was presented a paperback book.

In another Book Week event, book-marks noting the occasion, made by graphics classes of David Tripp at Telstar, were distributed to boys and girls.

The children of Mrs. Lettie Brooks' Grade One visited the Whitman Memorial Library on Friday afternoon, and members of one of Mrs. Natalie Timberlake's reading classes presented a puppet show.

How to tell a cat from a dog.

There are all kinds of snowmobiles on the market. Like cars. Some good. Some bad. How do you tell the good from the bad? Look for these things: a. Look for a torsion spring/slide rail suspension. Lots of people put them on their racing machines, but not on the ones they sell. The better the suspension, the smoother and steadier the ride, and better the traction. b. Make sure the engine is forward. It's safer there than sitting in your lap, and it makes for better balance.

c. See if it has an all-riveted aluminum construction. Most people will try to sell you a welded steel chassis. But it's too rigid. It should be flexible and light, like an airplane. d. Safety is important on snowmobiles.

And in them, too. Check to see if it has an emergency on-off switch that's easy to get to. Control cables that are moisture protected to prevent freeze-up. e. Make sure it has a bright twin-beam headlight, safety reflectors and dual tail lights. f. The ski-mounting should be heavy and strong. Otherwise you can't turn at all speeds, and the ride will never be steady. g. A hot engine burns spark plugs, misses under load, and starts poorly, so take a look at the hood. The design should let the air at the engine. Of course you could save yourself some time, and just look for this name. We're the only people who make a snowmobile with all these features. Which probably means we're the only people who really make a snowmobile at all.

COULD TEACHER TO SPEND TWO YEARS IN AUSTRALIA

Governor Kenneth M. Curtis said Wednesday that Alvin Ludwig Barth Jr. has been selected as Maine's participant in the International Teaching Fellowship Award program sponsored by the government of the State of Victoria, Australia. Accompanied by his wife, the former Jane Craig of Bethel, and two sons, ages three and five, Mr. Barth will leave in January for Australia, where he will teach for the next two years in Crofton, a suburb of Melbourne. He has been a member of the Gould Academy faculty for the past ten years.

Mr. Barth was selected from nominations made by school administrators to the State Department of Education.

To commemorate International Education year and the centenary of State Education in Victoria in 1971, Director General F. H. Brooks has invited one teacher from each of the 30 states, as well as representatives of Canada and the United Kingdom, to spend the next two years teaching and traveling in Australia. There will be 100 men and women involved in the program.

A native of Philadelphia, Mr. Barth is a graduate of Gould Academy, studied at Penn State University, the University of Utah and Colby College. He has done post-master's work at Glassboro (N.J.) State College, Boston University, University of Maine, Bowdoin College, Dartmouth College and Plymouth (N. H.) State College.

In addition to his 10 years in Bethel, he has taught at the University of Maine, Farmington, has been associated with business and has served as a Maine wilderness guide.

In recommending Mr. Barth for the fellowship program, Gould Headmaster Richard J. Dolven called him a "creative teacher not only in the classroom but outside," noting that he had originated a course entitled "Planet Earth," dealing with geology, astronomy, and ecology of Maine.

Mr. Barth's assignment in Crofton will give him an opportunity to work with boys and girls in a small high school and, at the same time, places him only 20 miles from the city of Melbourne. Full value of the fellowship, which includes travel and establishment fees, living allowances and travel allowances within Australia, amounts to more than $15,000.
